FROLLO/JEHAN/FATHER DUPIN/FLORIKA

FROLLO: Jehan, Where have you been? Why weren't you in evening mass?

JEHAN: It's your birthday today! We must celebrate! I brought you a gift — she's a friend of mine. (He reveals FLORIKA).

FROLLO: A gypsy girl in our room?

JEHAN: Florika – she is a beauty, isn't she? This is my brother, Claude.

FLORIKA: Happy birthday...Claude. Don't be shy. I can see you want to. I can see it in your eyes. Ha-ha! I can feel it, too!

FROLLO: Stop!

FATHER DUPIN: Claude?

JEHAN: It's Father Dupin! Help me hide her!

FATHER DUPIN: What is going on in here?

JEHAN: Nothing, Father!

FATHER DUPIN: Is it nothing, Claude?

FROLLO: Tell him, Jehan. If you won't, I will! (Pulls FLORIKA out of the hiding place)

FATHER DUPIN: (speak) You must leave, Jehan, this holy refuge where you've dwelled.

JEHAN: Leave? But Father—

FATHER DUPIN: (speak) Sorry Claude, but I've no choice your brother is expelled.

FROLLO: Jehan...

JEHAN: What did you think? That they wouldn't send me away? Who do you think these people are?

FROLLO: These people have given us a home and comfort and safety!

JEHAN: Comfort?! You call this comfort? You call this safety? Well, you can have it! You're welcome to it.
